Foreword to the Indexes

This two-volume set contains four separate indexes, for Local and Special Laws, and for General Laws of Local Application for Counties, Municipalities, and Judicial Circuits.

General laws of local application. The indexes to the general laws of local application appear in Volume 42A. An explanation of how to use those indexes appears in a user's guide at the beginning of those indexes in Volume 42A.

Population Tables. In order to make the indexes for the general laws of local application more easily used, Volume 42A contains population tables, both alphabetical and numerical, for counties, municipalities, and judicial circuits according to the 2000 census. Additionally, the alphabetical counties table contains entries for the counties according to each census from 1930 to 2000. These population tables are set out after the indexes of general laws of local application.

References. The references in this volume date from 1732 to the present. Entries between 1732 and 1776 have references to the Colonial Records of Georgia. Entries for material after 1776 have references to the Session Laws of Georgia. Some of these references are followed by parenthetical information; the abbreviations used in the parentheticals are explained in the Table of Abbreviations in each Volume, which follows the Foreword.

Current and noncurrent categories. Within a name or subject-matter heading the entries have been divided into two categories: current and noncurrent. The current category contains those entries pertaining to Acts considered valid at the time of publication of this volume. The noncurrent category contains those entries which are repealed, unconstitutional, obsolete, superseded or otherwise invalid.

Acts viewed as a whole. The Acts are indexed in such a way that the entire life or history of an Act can be easily and readily seen. Amendments to Acts will be listed as such directly after the Act they indicate they are amending. Repeals will also be listed after the Act or Acts they indicate they are repealing.

Headings. Acts and resolutions will generally be found under the heading containing the specific name of the person, place, county, municipality, judicial circuit, corporation or entity involved. However, certain broad subject-matter category headings have been created. The purpose of the creation of these headings is to make it easier for the index user to find and know what is in the index relating to the categories. The user will find the use of the broad category headings eliminates the guesswork often involved in trying to find index entries. They are also helpful in those cases where the user is uncertain of the exact name of the entity involved, or where a corporation is incorporated under one name but known by another, similar name. Familiarity with the following category headings will ease the researcher's task: Agricultural Societies; Bridge Companies; Building and Development Companies; Campgrounds; Cemeteries; Charitable Institutions; Compensation Resolutions; Educational Institutions; Express Companies; Financial Institutions; Fire Companies; Gas, Light and Water Companies; Georgia Code; Insurance Companies; Land Grants; Military Organizations; Mining, Manufacturing Companies; Patrons of Husbandry; Railroad Companies; Religious Organizations; Resolutions, Miscellaneous; Roads; Stage Carriage Lines; Steamboat, Canal and Navigation Companies; Surety Resolutions; Telephone and Telegraph Companies; Turnpike, Road Companies.

Acts and resolutions not indexed. Certain categories of material were not included within the scope of these volumes. These include Acts and resolutions pertaining to: bar admissions; admissions to practice medicine; name changes; legitimization; slavery; estates; sureties, pre 1900; free dealers relief; releases from pains of bigamy and adultery; divorce; banishment; and reimbursement of specifically named officers for extra services pre 1900.

Construction and interpretation of HB 1429. Ga. L. 1982, p. 2107, which enacts several provisions based on population and repeals several other provisions based on population has the seeming effect of repealing certain Code sections even though enacted in the Act. The Act should not be read in this manner but should be read as expressing legislative intent pursuant to paragraph (13) of subsection (b) of Code Section 1-1-10. Based upon that provision, if the General Assembly had not repealed the underlying population Act when enacting the Code section based upon that Act, both provisions would have remained in effect.

Constitutional amendments. Only constitutional amendments which have been ratified have been indexed.

Pursuant to the Constitution of 1983, Art. XI, Sec. I, Par. IV, (a), many local constitutional amendments have been continued in effect by local law or by home rule ordinance or resolution. These are indicated by parenthetical notation.

Pursuant to sub-paragraph (c) of that provision, many local constitutional amendments have been permitted to expire; indexing for these provisions has been moved from Current to Noncurrent, and a parenthetical explanation has been inserted following the reference.

Sub-paragraph (d) of that provision excepts certain classes of local constitutional amendments from the requirement of continuation. Also, Art. VII, Sec. II, Par. IV provides for another class of amendments for which continuation is not required. The indexing for all these amendments has been left in Current, and no parenthetical explanation has been provided.

Toll-free numbers. Persons desiring to make any suggestions or comments or who are having a difficult time finding where a particular piece of legislation is indexed are encouraged to call the LexisNexis® Index hotline (1-800-897-7922) for immediate help; LexisNexis® also provides both a fax (1-434-972-7686) and Internet E-mail (lng-cho-indexing@lexisnexis.com) for use by index users. Suggestions are especially welcome with respect to Acts which may be superseded or obsolete but which are still in Current because they have not been specifically repealed or because there was uncertainty as to their status.

Cards. Persons desiring to make suggestions or comments or who are having a difficult time finding where a particular piece of legislation is indexed may use the reply cards found at the back of this supplement to communicate with the Indexers.

Supplementary material. The index user should consult annual supplements to these volumes for further amendments and repeals to Acts, as well as new material.

General Laws of Local Application
User's Guide

General laws of local application are general laws which are applicable to counties, municipalities, standard metropolitan statistical areas and judicial circuits according to population or area. These Acts are arranged in three classifications, one each for counties, municipalities and judicial circuits. Within each classification the Acts are arranged by census, going from earlier to most current. The population figures within each census are in descending sequence.

Population tables are found after the index for judicial circuits. The first table lists the counties of Georgia alphabetically and sets out after each the results of the census of 1930 through 2000. The second table lists the counties numerically from the smallest to the largest according to the 2000 census. The third table lists municipalities alphabetically with the results of the 2000 census, and the fourth table arranges the municipalities numerically according to the results of the 2000 census. The fifth and sixth tables list the judicial circuits alphabetically and numerically.

An example of how these indexes may be used follows. A person in Taylor County wishing to know if there are any general Acts of local application affecting Taylor County can check the county population tables. Using the alphabetic list, there appear the populations for Taylor County for the census of 1930 through 2000. The population according to the 1930 census is 10,617. Looking in the counties classification of the index under CENSUS OF 1930, relating to repayment of donations for highway purposes, Ga. L. 1935, p. 175, amending Georgia Code 1933, Section 95-2111, which was repealed in Ga.L. 1973, p. 947 and Ga.L. 1981, p. 3 § 2 (232). The 1940 and 1950 census populations of 10,768 and 9,113 respectively, do not fall within the scope of any of the acts within their respective census. The 1960 census of 8,311 falls within the bracket of 8,250-8,350, where acts provide compensation for the coroner, Ga.L. 1969, p. 3805, repealed in Ga.L. 1981, p. 3 §2 (643), and establish a small claims court, Ga.L. 1967, p. 2422, repealed in Ga.L. 1971, p. 3513. The 1970 census figure of 7,685 does not fall within any of the 1970 census population brackets.

An example of a general law of local application according to area is the Act found in Ga.L. 1937-38, Ex Sess p. 887, repealed in Ga.L. 1981, p. 3 §2 (171). This Act supplemented the compensation of sheriffs in counties of 711 square miles according to the census of 1930. It is indexed under CENSUS OF 1930, AREA OF 711 SQUARE MILES.
